

The GoSportsBet Pledge

We are committed to helping our subscribers become an educated and informed sports bettors, and to provide security and confidentiality throughout their entire wagering experiences.

After years of seeing sportsbooks prey on the ignorance of their clients, we got sick of it. It's one thing to make a good bet and happen to lose, but all too often, bettors make poor decisions because they are simply uninformed, and never give themselves a chance at hitting payouts. So here's the GoSportsBet pledge: as a subscriber, you will be among the best-educated gamers on the planet.

We've hired expert columnist Hansel Wei to write articles on how to play various types of wagers (parlays, props, futures, teasers, point spreads, etc), how the odds are made, and which kind of bets you should stay away from. We'll provide a range of inside tips aimed at gamers of different levels of experience, from complete novices to people who have been playing for years. We offer weekly free picks. We have promotions where you can try out new kinds of bets on us, and keep the money if you win! Becoming a member is free, and these services are free to all our members.

We can't guarantee you'll win every bet (who can?) but what we can and do guarantee is that as a GoSportsBet subscriber you'll make every bet from an intelligent and informed position, and that you'll feel secure when you do so. Other sportsbooks can't say the same thing. Customer security and satisfaction is our number one priority, and we hope that you'll appreciate this enough to honor us with your business.
